

MACSWINEY HAD RESTLESS NIGHT

Non 28 Days Without Food—No Action by Lloyd-George Toward Release—Prest Mts by Hedgcock Throughout Night.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 9.—Terence Mac Swiney, Sinn Féin Lord Mayor of Cork, who has been on a hunger strike for 28 days, passed a very broken and restless night. He is suffering from numbness in the limbs and was feverish.

The Rev. Father Dominic, personal spiritual advisor to the lord mayor, spent the night at lonely vigil by the bedside in the Brixton Jail Infirmary. When he departed at 9:30 o'clock he said that Mac Swiney had suffered considerable pain during the night. An official bulletin, issued at 6 a. m., said that the condition of Mac Swiney was unchanged.

A sister and brother, who visited the jail infirmary during the morning, said that Mac Swiney suffered frequent spells of dizziness and that the numbness in his arms and legs seemed to be increasing.

Whether or not Premier Lloyd-George will modify his Irish policy and release Mac Swiney and possibly the other Irish hunger strikers, was not certain this morning. The Daily Chronicle quoted the premier as saying: "I have watched the Mac Swiney case with pain, but it must not be allowed to obscure our duty. We have positive proof that Mayor Mac Swiney's brigade—the so-called Irish republican army—was concerned in the murder of policemen in Ireland. We must either hand over all of South Ireland to something called the republican army, or protect the men who are defending the law."

ASHOKAN WATER CLAIMS ARGUED

Among the cases argued before the Appellate division of the Supreme Court at Albany on Tuesday were the following of local interest:

In re-application of Board of Water Supply, city of New York, dam commission 4, seventh separate report. This appeal is by the claimant, James H. Sands, from an order setting aside the seventh separate report of the dam commission wherein an award of $145,000 damages was recommended to claimant for decrease in real estate and water power destroyed on land not taken by the city of New York for Ashokan dam purposes. Argued by J. E. Mack for appellant; William H. Grogan for respondent.

In the Sands case, an order of Justice Howard was read, in which he asserted that "the claimant has nothing but naked water tumbling over rocks." "Nobody but a novelist or expert would have sufficient imagination to convert these rockeries and ruins into a substantial fortune."

The city of New York, through counsel, asserted Sands' bought the Ashokan property as a speculator, for $25,500, so he could make a damage claim.

In re-application of the Board of Water Supply, city of New York. This appeal is by James H. Sands, from an order denying claimant's motion to vacate and set aside the report of the commissioners and re-instating the same to the Rensselaer Water Power Commission.

The appellant is a claimant for a parcel of land in the Ashokan dam proceedings. The expenses in this case amounted to more than $1,000,000. Argued by Edward A. Alexander for appellant; William H. Black for respondent.

FOREST PROTECTION.

Governor Calls for Special Effort Next Week.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Sept. 9.—By an official proclamation of Governor Smith, the week of September 12 to 19 is to be observed throughout New York state as "Forest Protection Week."

The text of the governor's proclamation is as follows:

"The forests of New York state constitute one of our greatest natural resources and as such are an asset of tremendous value and importance. They are essential to the industrial, physical and spiritual welfare of our state and its people."

"The people of the state individually, and acting through their governmental agencies, have long endeavored to secure adequate protection of the forests from fire, the most destructive agency that threatens our woodlands."

"Realizing that a more earnest and concerted effort is imperative if we are to safeguard our heritage, now, therefore, I, Alfred E. Smith, governor of the state of New York, do hereby proclaim the week beginning Sunday, September 12, 1920, as 'Forest Protection Week,' and I call upon every citizen to spread a word of caution regarding forest fires, and upon clergymen, teachers and all public officials to exert themselves to the utmost to inform those with whom they come in contact of the transcendent importance of our forest resources and the need for their adequate protection."

TAXPAYERS' ASS'N. MET.

Plan Opposition to Phone Rates and Track Abandonment.

At a meeting of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association Wednesday night, at its rooms, 635 Broadway, with several new members present, the executive committee was directed to file a protest with the public service commission against the new telephone rates. The committee was also told to get in touch with other associations opposing this raise, including Corporation Counsel Lewis of Syracuse, leader of the opposition, and to ask the mayor and common council to combat the new schedule. It was suggested that the new telephone business extensions could be paid for with bond issues rather than increased revenues.

It was moved that the Taxpayers' Association petition the public service commission to allow it representation at the hearing on the proposed abandonment of the Colonial trolley line and to present an answer. Also that a request be made that the trolley company will its tracks on streets where Willits is laid and if this is refused, that the association be told why.

MORE VIOLENCE IN BROOKLYN STRIKE

Fire in Elevated Cars Does $20,000 Damage—Switches Disabled And Cars Could Not Be Moved—Explosions In Cars—1,200 Men Necessity of New Force.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 9.—Simultaneously with efforts of Receiver Lindsey M. Garrison to organize an efficient force to replace Brooklyn Rapid Transit strikers, violence broke out again today in Brooklyn.

Early this morning fire was discovered in a string of elevated cars at Coney Island. A fire alarm was turned in by a patrolman, but damage estimated at $20,000 was done before the blaze was extinguished.

Striking breakers who tried to move adjoining cars out of reach of the fire were unable to do so because switches had been tampered with. Six explosions are said to have been heard, resulting, the police say, from cans of gunpowder placed in the cars.

A trolley wire 500 feet long was destroyed when a gaspipe was run from it to a rail, creating a short circuit and burning out the wire.

Twelve hundred men who returned to work from the strikers' ranks will be used as the nucleus of a new working force for the system, Receiver Garrison said.

ITALIAN SOVIET DRIFT CONTINUES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 9.—Italian iron and steel workers who have seized hundreds of factories in their campaign to "sovietize" Italian industries, have been joined by the Italian dock workers at Genoa, according to a Milan dispatch to the Daily Herald today.

The Italian dock workers at Genoa have seized all the docks, piers and warehouses just as the iron and steel mills were taken over by the metal workers, said the Milan dispatch.

The Italian railwaymen are giving aid to the workers who have flung out the flag of "industrial revolution."

Milan reports that the railway employees are issuing food and other supplies to the factories where soviets have been created.

"Friday may see an extension of the soviet principle to the main industries throughout all Italy," said the telegram to the Daily Herald.

"If the workers in the metal trades do not settle their dispute with the factory owners, it is likely that the Italian Confederation of Labor will recommend immediate action by other branches of unionized labor throughout Italy."

Premier Giolitti is attempting to bring about a settlement between the iron and steel workers and the mill owners to prevent a spread of sovietism and to avert violence that may follow if workmen throughout Italy began seizing all the factories.

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOLS NORMAL

Class work in the public schools is now in full swing with the classes all organized and the registration in the grade schools is about normal. These facts were brought out Wednesday evening at the meeting of the grammar school principals with Superintendent Michael. At that time the principals stated that the enrollment was about the same as last year at this time.

At the high school Principal Lewis stated this morning that they had been so busy getting the classes organized and the work started that no registration figures were available yet. He said that the freshmen class, however, was the largest in the history of the school with fifty more freshmen registered than last year. The enrollment of out of town pupils is also large at the high school.

Congressmen Ephraim Chapin, Bad, Lee, Dell, Vinson and Larsen have been nominated. W. F. Slater is running neck and neck with Congressman Overstreet for the nomination in the first district.

Both Watson and Hardwick made their campaign one of the hottest in the history of Georgia politics, opposing the league of nations and the present Democratic national administration. Senator Smith trailed the senatorial ticket.

HARDING MADE SIX SPEECHES

Instead of One Scheduled in Minnesota—Immensely Pleased With First Journey From Front Porch and May Visit Oklahoma Fair.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
En Route With Senator Harding, Sept. 9.—Senator Warren G. Harding is speeding back to the comparative quiet of his Marion front porch today immensely pleased with the results of his first campaign trip of the political season.

Minnesota and its splendid twin cities vied with each other in providing a strenuous, enjoyable and completely satisfactory day for us," Senator Harding said. "I shall not make the mistake of assuming that the great outpouring of people and the magnificent reception given us was merely a personal tribute. It was more than that and vastly more significant. It was the test that the people of this great state are completely in sympathy with the people of the country in determination to put America once more on the main highway of national progress and then go ahead safely along the right line. Perhaps the thing that most gratified me was the close attention with which the audience at the fair grounds listened to a speech that was intended to present a constructive program. It was not an appeal for applause but a plea for thoughtful consideration of a great national problem. The people, by their recognition, proved that they are thinking deeply about real things and that is all we need to know to be certain of the future."

WIDE SURVEY OF RURAL SCHOOLS

Committee of Farmers and Educators to Go Thoroughly into Problem in This State With View of Making Working Out Recommendations That Will Be Approved By Rural Parents.

On August 27th the joint committee of twenty-one on rural education held its second meeting at Syracuse, N. Y., to make preliminary arrangements to start one of the most important pieces of work that ever has been attempted in New York state. The plans is to make a thorough study of all phases of rural education in the state, and out what is now being done in the rural and village schools, what the farm people of the state want in their schools and, so far as possible, decide what kind of schools the country boys and girls should have, and then to take steps to put recommendations for improvement of the schools into effect.

The organization of the joint committee on rural education came about because of the very general dissatisfaction among farm people with the rural schools and the desire on the part of the state education department to have the cooperation of the farmers in improving the educational conditions in the rural communities. Everybody, farmers and educators alike, agree that there is opportunity for improvement in rural education. It is agreed that one reason why young people leave the country is the better educational advantages of the city. The problem has been recognized in the past, and efforts have been made to find and agree upon plans for bettering the country schools. Attempts have been made to put plans into effect for improving the schools, but either because these plans were not right, or because they were not thoroughly understood, they have not succeeded.

The initiative for this latest movement came from the farmers themselves and from their organizations. After several discussions of the educational problem at farmers' week at Cornell last winter, a suggestion was made that there should be a committee appointed representing both farmers and educators to study the school problem and make suggestions for improvement. The committee on rural education is the result of this suggestion. It is composed of twenty-one members, three of whom were appointed by the New York State Grange, three by the Dairyman's League, three by the State Federation of Farm Bureaus and three by the State Federation of Home Bureaus, making twelve of the twenty-one members direct representatives of farm people. The remainder of the committee is composed of three representatives appointed by the New York State Teachers' Association, three representatives appointed by the New York State Department of Education and three by the Department of Rural Education of the New York State College of Agriculture.

The committee held its first meeting at Syracuse on May 7, 1920, and organized with Professor G. A. Works of the Rural Education Department of Agriculture as chairman, H. C. McKenzie of the State Farm Bureau Federation as the vice-chairman and E. R. Eastman, editor of the Dairyman's League News as secretary.

The plans of the committee are, of course, not fully matured. One of the things that will be done is to subdivide the work into its different phases or problems and make a thorough, expert study of each of these subdivisions. For instance, there will be a study made of school administration and supervision, another on the qualifications of teachers and another on the school unit. The question of the school unit will bring up the old argument of consolidation. Another study will be made on courses of study to determine whether or not the work done in the average district school is best for country children. These are only a few problems that will be studied and investigated by the committee itself or by the experts hired by the committee and responsible to it.

One of the things which the committee hopes to do, and which it considers more important than all others, is to work in the closest cooperation and understanding with the farm people so that when the final recommendations are made, they will have the full approval of the farm people of the state, and will include the suggestions and wishes of the parents who are the ones most interested in the welfare of the boys and girls. Meetings will be held to discuss the problem in all parts of state and will be brought up for discussion in local meetings of the Dairyman's League, Farm Bureaus, the Grange and in meetings of other farm organizations at every opportunity. The committee will take great care to keep people fully informed of its activities, and it invites the fullest discussion of the great problem by all and any who are interested.

MOUNTAIN CELEBRATION.

Crosspatch Farm Scene of Jolly Day.

Labor Day celebration at Crosspatch Farm was a very lively time, despite the rain, which made it impossible to have the ball game which had been scheduled between the Willow and the Mountain nine.

The celebration was given in honor of the community work initiated by Captain Cross and his wife, who writes and speaks under the name of Eva Mac Donald Valesh.

"About fifty people came in spite of the bad weather," said Mrs. Cross. "As we could not have the ball game we staged an indoor vaudeville, with dancing and singing by everybody."

Dr. Sutherland, who had charge of the outdoor sports, put up a vaulting pole and the visitors had great sport, between showers, in having a try at pole vaulting. Willie Moon did pretty well for a beginner. Dr. Sutherland was disappointed that he only cleared seven feet. He had made eleven feet when he took the championship at college, but he is heavier now.

The ladies' potato race caused a good deal of merriment for the ground was very wet and treacherous.

Astrachan apples were used instead of potatoes. Mrs. Charles Allen Abrahams of New York was the winner of the blue ribbon prize and Mrs. Arnold H. Sutherland came second, the city girls beating the country in this contest.

Then the men tried the potato race. W. Arlington came first and William Gould second.

The obstacle race could not be omitted, although Clifford Sengendorf (who won the race on July 4) was marooned at his home with seven guests who doubted that the celebration would be held in the rain. In his party were Mr. Van de Bogart and Mr. Bonsteel, who were going to do their best to beat him.

There were twenty entries for the obstacle race. The course was pretty difficult but W. Wright came first and George Lane second, with the balance of the field close on their heels.

Mr. Arlington fell and scratched his forehead, so he got a donkey watch charm as a consolation prize.

Candy, cigars, smoking tobacco and blue ribbons were the prizes for all the events.

"Contrary to the usual procedure," said Mrs. Cross, "we had the refreshments first. It was amusing to see the guests seated on cushions on the porch floor, after we had used all our chairs. We had not expected to seat so many, but they were all very welcome."

"Luckily we had made a fine lot of ice cream, so everybody had all they could eat."

Mrs. Sutherland contributed two layer cakes and I had quite a lot of small cakes ready, although it had been an out door affair. I had only expected to serve refreshments to the children and those who took part in the games.

"It was very jolly to be able to spread our refreshments for the whole party."

After refreshments the photograph was started and the living room and dining room cleared for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Abrahams gave a Hawaiian dance which was applauded and there was community singing in the intermission when all the dancers rested.

Among those present were: Mrs. Charles Ostrander, Harry Ostrander, William Moon, Charles Boeres, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benjamin and their five children; Miss Marguerite Gould, Mrs. William Gould, Viron Morris, Ralph Johnson, Paul Lane, George Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ford, Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair, Mr. and Miss Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Abrahams, Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Sutherland and Mrs. Roberta Thomas of Washington, D. C., who was a house guest at Crosspatch Farm for the week.

"Everybody seemed to have a jolly time," said Mrs. Cross, "but the in-door celebration in our little home, made me wish that our more spacious Community House was ready."

"However the first dirt was turned for the foundation on Labor Day and had it been a clear day, we would have formally laid the corner stone."

"Already we have had voluntary contributions toward our Community work and I hope to raise enough money to pay an instructor to stay in the Community House the year round to supervise both the play and the educational work that seems so necessary in an isolated mountain neighborhood, where the bad roads and weather make it difficult for the children to attend either school or church regularly."

"We had fourtimes at Sunday school last Sunday."

"Our next celebration will be at Christmas and we hope to have our Christmas tree in the new Community House."

"Next year on Labor Day we will have an all-day fair with exhibits of various kinds and dancing and games all day."

STREET TALK ON COAL PRICE PROBE

Some Think Common Council Made Mistake Judging by Past Performance of Wilson Administration, and Cite Sugar Prices as an Example of Government Investigation.

They were a little group of prominent men, who, during the noon hour paused for a few minutes' conversation on the street. The topics they discussed were the topics of the day and soon the conversation drifted around to the action taken by the common council Tuesday night in adopting the Martin resolution authorizing the city clerk to write the administration at Washington to send investigators here to probe coal and milk prices.

Said one business man: "I don't know what to think about it, but judging from past performances of the Wilson administration I hardly think the council adopted the right dose in the matter."

"How is that?" asked another. "Take the sugar situation, for instance," said the first. "When sugar was selling for nine to ten cents a pound the government came out with the proclamation that the fair price for sugar was 18 cents a pound, and if you remember back that far it was only a very short time afterward when we were paying 18 cents a pound and then it was boosted to nearly 30 cents a pound."

"That's so, too," replied another of the group, "and take the gasoline situation. The government came out with a statement recently that the fair price for gas was 40 cents a gallon, and it is gradually getting there."

"In other words," interrupted the first speaker, "the government investigators when he comes, if he ever comes, is liable to come out with a statement that $15 would be a fair price per ton for Kingston folks to pay, and have you any doubt but that the price would reach that point shortly afterward?"

Just then the 12:30 o'clock whistle blew, and the group dispersed to their various avocations.

MINERS ASK NEW AWARD PROMISE

By Telegram to The Freeman. Wilkes Barre, Pa., Sept. 9.—Insurgent anthracite coal miners who defied their union leaders, spurned President Wilson's tender of a 17 percent wage increase and disorganized the hard coal fields, were today ready to go back to work if guaranteed that the wage award issue will be reopened. Enoch Williams, the wiry, 120 pound, middle aged insurgent leader, admitted as much.

"But we can't and won't live on promises," said Williams. "We must have more money. The award was unfair."

Local opinion backs up the miners contention that the award was insufficient, but holds that since the union leaders accepted it, the men should first return to work before the question is reopened.

In district number one—the fields about Wilkes Barre—where the insurgent movement began, and where the miners are fifty percent unionized, a majority of the workers were back today, operators declared. But reports from Scranton, Pottsville and Hazleton today showed the tie up in districts 7 and 9, which are 100 percent unionized, continued.

TO FIX DATE FOR ATHLETIC GAMES

This evening an important meeting of the committee of the American Legion in charge of the big athletic meet to be held in Kingston later in the year will be held at the armory at 8 o'clock, and all members of the committee are urged to be present. One of the most important matters to come up is the fixing of the date for the athletic games to be held at Athletic Field.

Recently the Colonial A. C. was organized to hold an athletic meet and later it was decided to turn the holding of the meet over to the American Legion and the Legion appointed a committee to make arrangements. So far a number of prizes have been donated for the various field and track events by men interested in athletics, and it is expected that the meet will attract here many well known Hudson river valley athletes to compete, as well as local stars.

It was expected to hold the meet the latter part of this month or early in October. The date will be fixed tonight.

Shower For Miss Keiffer.

Last Thursday night the home of Mrs. Short, 166 Foxhall avenue, was the scene of a very pretty shower given to Miss Guskie Keiffer, by the Atherton-Rabekah Lodge, No. 357. Miss Keiffer, unsuspecting of anything, attended a social given by the lodge at Mrs. Short's. Great indeed was the surprise she felt when in the course of the evening the members tendered her a variety of gifts in honor of her approaching marriage to Frank Bliss. Miss Keiffer was the recipient of many beautiful gifts including silver, cut glass, linen and various cooking utensils of aluminum and pyrex. An enjoyable evening was had by all and everyone left wishing Miss Keiffer many happy years of married life.

Wheeler-Dressel.

Miss Annette Dressel, daughter of Mrs. Mary Dressel of 456 Broadway, and Mr. Walter Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford M. Wheeler of 120 Cedar street, were quietly married at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church by the pastor the Rev. George M. Cranson. They were attended by Mrs. Jeanette E. Barnett, a sister of the bride, and Clayton R. Smith, a brother-in-law of the groom. Mr. Wheeler is one of the city mail carriers. He is a graduate of Kingston High School, and one of the best football stars turned out by Kingston Academy and Kingston High School. Mrs. Wheeler is also quite popular. After a wedding journey to Columbus, Ohio this couple will reside at 456 Broadway.

Variety Shower.

On Friday evening a number of friends gathered at the home of Miss Guskie Keiffer, 707 Broadway, and tendered her a variety shower. The home was prettily decorated with many flowers and crepe paper. From the center of the parlor ceiling was hung a large umbrella covered with red crepe paper with streamers attached. This contained many of the gifts. Miss Keiffer who had been spending the evening with some friends arrived home, she noticed nothing unusual and taking her friends into the parlor started to light the gas, when her friends who were waiting there shouted "Surprise." She was very much surprised and of course it didn't take long for the house to get lighted. After recovering her breath somewhat she was told to pull the streamers. After pulling several she pulled one and attached to the end of it was a gift; as each gift was taken off another followed quickly in its place. After the last gift was opened and all admired, the rest of the evening was spent in singing and dancing. Many piano and vocal selections were rendered. At a late hour all marched to the dining room, to the strains of "Here Comes the Bride." The march was headed by the bride-to-be and the intended bridegroom, Frank Bliss. On arriving in the dining room they were seated at a very bounteous repast for which Mrs. Keiffer is noted. Jolly indeed were the guests assembled and between courses the bride-to-be and the future bridegroom were showered with all the best wishes imaginable. After supper dancing was resumed. In the "see small hours" the guests departed voting one and all an evening enjoyed and acknowledged Miss Keiffer and her mother charming hostesses. Miss Keiffer was the recipient of many useful gifts including silver, cut glass and linen.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

KIDNAPED

By ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

Condensation by James B. Connolly

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote in 1883: "I am now a person with an established ill health—a weak, nervous, and very delicate constitution. I am now a person with an established ill health—a weak, nervous, and very delicate constitution. I am now a person with an established ill health—a weak, nervous, and very delicate constitution."

At this time he and his wife spent some of their happiest periods in their small boat on the Firth of Clyde. At the end of 18 months he was again lying back in acute suffering. They went to Bourneville, where they lived in "Skerryvore" until after his father's death. Combined to the home—a condition most irksome to his active and energetic nature, and his brilliant spirit nevertheless found some expression at the slightest respite from pain and weakness. He wrote "Kidnaped," one of his most brilliant successes, and the "wild symbolic" tale of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," the most popular of all his writings.

In 1885, left the trying climate of the British Isles, never to return. With his family he went to the United States, where he was welcomed, but his weak condition necessitated an immediate rest at Saratoga, N. Y. Here he wrote for Scribner's magazine the complete "Kidnaped," "The Last of the Barons," "The Dreamer," and "The Tale of the Two Kings," the charm of which is magical.

It was dawn; the blackbirds were whistling in the lilacs, the mists of the valley arising and melting, when I set out for the house of Shaw. On the forenoon of the second day, coming to the top of a hill, I saw the city of Edinburgh smoking like a kiln below me. There was a flag upon the castle, and ships anchored to the blue floor of the Firth, a sight which thrilled me.

I walked on toward Cramond, making inquiries as I went of my uncle, who seemed to be in no favor thereabout, some giving me a half-civil word, some a scowl or a curse for an answer. It was night, and his house barred and dark when I came to it; and it was a long while before my shouts and knocks brought him to the window from where, with a blunderbuss by way of welcome, he screamed to inquire my business.

It was a mean, stooping, clay-faced creature; and a big, uncleanly house and an ill-kept one I saw when at last he let me in, with dirt, mice and spiders having their play of it. Here I stayed some days, the while he sparingly fed me with porridge and a rare half-cup of ale. One night he gave me 40 pounds, saying it was a debt he owed my father, and with it gave me also a rusty key to the high stair tower, telling me to bring him down the chest at the top of it. I went, poor fool, into the dark to bring it; and only a blink of summer lightning saved me from stepping into space and being dashed sheer down from the top of the tower.

Of the estate that he had defrauded my father in life I had then no suspicion; but that happening of the tower gave me a glimpse of his villainy. In the morning my body would be discovered at the foot of the tower, his 40 pounds in my pockets, as one trying to escape after robbing his host. What a tale he would make of it! Next day my uncle spoke of a friend, Captain Elias Hosenauer of the brig Corsair, then lying off Queensferry on the Firth, proposing that I go to call there with him. I agreed, being eager to get away from that evil house; also I had knowledge that residing in Queensferry was Mr. Rankin, the counsel and agent, a friendly person and one who knew more than any other of my father's business in life.

We arrived at Queensferry, but I did not see Mr. Rankin, for he had just allowed myself to be led into looking over the brig with Captain Hosenauer and my uncle. It was so that I came to be knocked on the head and kidnapped to sea on the agreement between my uncle and Captain Hosenauer that I was to be sold into slavery in the Carolines.

It was a fair wind the first day to sea, but following days were all head winds, the ship making no little way, so that by evening the wind had shifted and we were heading her north back the way we had come. During this time I had watched the cabin boy was killed by the first officer in a drunken quarrel, his body cast overboard and I revealed his death.

It was night, with a swell and a thick mist, for the moon was over a heavy cloud and all but one man in the bottom. That one with a lamp and a hatch which showed his eye again.

He entered the cabin, or round-house, looking cool as you please, and called for something to eat and the drink to wash it down. He was a well-set, rather small man with a dark face and dancing bright eyes. Under his great coat were two silver-mounted pistols, a dirk and a great sword. He made his name known, Alan Stewart Brock, and without fear announced himself as on a mission for Prince Charlie. From a money belt about him he offered the Captain sixty guineas to be set ashore on Linlithgow Loch.

The Captain shook hands on the bargain but at once went on deck to plot with his first officer as to how best to come at the money belt. I had no love for the Captain, and also it was scarce hospitality to a man we had all but drowned; so I warned the stranger of the plot. Surprised he was but put out, asking me would I stand with him. Jacobite though he was, I said I would.

Two doors and a skylight furnished entrance to the round-house. Alan placed me with loaded pistols where I could see to shoot through at whoever might come at one closed door or through the glass skylight. The other door he left open, standing before it with dirk and sword. They came with a rush of feet and many loud cries toward Alan. I heard a shout from him and cry as of someone hurt. Then came five men with a spare yard for a battering ram to drive my door in. For the first time in my life I fired a pistol; and hit one of them, which drove them back. By then Alan's sword was running blood; and the first mate, he who had murdered the cabin boy, lay dying on the floor. Another lay beside him.

They came next to my side, some to the barred door and one dropping through the skylight to the floor, where, after first closing my eyes, I shot him. He dropped with a horrible groan. Another one's legs landed through the skylight, and him I shot too, he dropping dead atop of his companion. Alan was then drinking one who clung to his legs, and putting the entreat to another who was coming head on at him. A third held a cutlass over him and yet more were crowding at him through the door. He seemed lost; but he broke clear and, taking his distance close one, clove another, and then, his sword flashing like quicksilver, drove the others like sheep along the deck.

We were masters of the brig Alan embraced and kissed me, saying: "David, I love you like a brother. But O man, am I no the bonny fighter?" and setting down by the table, sword in hand, he burst into a Gaelic song. The very next night we struck on a reef. I was thrown into the sea, thinking I would drown, but found a spar and with it lugged myself along till my feet found quiet water and dry land. Of the ship or her company I could see nothing. Later I learned that all but the wounded were safe. The ship herself was a total loss to Captain Hosenauer, which I did not grieve to hear.

After days of wandering and secret inquiry, for he was one with a price on his head, I found Alan. It was in the same hour that I witnessed the killing of Campbell of Gleanure, the man who had been doing the King's will against the Jacobites. The shot came in such fashion that I seemed to be an accomplice. I had to flee or be hanged. It was Alan who secured my immediate escape. For two months thereafter, with red-coats guarding every road and glen, I followed Alan through the country of the Campbells. It was wet and cold and slim food for us both, with now and then a little something not much better to the hut of a Jacobite. Weary I grew and full of pain, crawling the wet heather and climbing the rugged crags and hills. Posted bills promised great rewards for our capture—I saw them everywhere—and many there were who knew us for what we were; but never one poor and miserable though they might be, to speak the word of betrayal. "Such," cried Alan proudly, "is the loyalty of the Highlander."

We came safe at last to Queensferry, and the home of Mr. Rankin, who proved a shrewd kindly friend and who at once set about retrieving my rights in the Shaw estate. "Your father," he explained, "was a good man but weak. He loved your mother. To win your mother he let your uncle steal the estates. But we will have them back soon."

Alan aided us greatly in our plans. Half by quick wit and half by sheer boldness, he had my uncle admit his plan to have me kidnapped and sold into slavery in the Carolines. Mr. Rankin and his clerk all the while listening in the shadows. And so I came into my own.

And Alan who made a man of me? All he asked was to be put on the record of his mission. As to that, let me say if I say no more, that he went safe on his way and all went well with him thereafter.

Spanish Industries Hurt.

The constant strikes, followed by the heaviest and the shorter working day in Catalonia, Spain, have added to the cost of production of certain articles that certain products may now be imported which previously could not compete with local manufactures. An example of this is tobacco, which has been brought in in considerable quantities from the United States.

MRS. CRANSTON ELECTED HEAD

Wife of Pastor of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church is President of Kingston District Women's Foreign Missionary Society. In Session Here Wednesday—Other Officers Elected.

Mrs. George M. Cranston, wife of the pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, was elected president of the Kingston District Women's Foreign Missionary Society at the annual meeting held Wednesday in the Trinity M. E. Church. The other officers elected were: First vice president, Mrs. J. J. Dean; second vice president, Miss Emily C. Hale; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Jones; recording secretary, Miss Anna Plummer; treasurer, Mrs. John Linn; superintendent of young people's work, Mrs. Clayton Smith; superintendent of children's work, Mrs. P. C. Weyant; wife of the pastor of the entertaining church; superintendent of extension work, Mrs. E. T. Byles of Coxsack; and superintendent of literature, Mrs. W. N. Ryder.

The sessions were held all day Wednesday at the down town church and were well attended. Following the serving of luncheon at noon to the delegates by the ladies of the entertaining church at a nominal sum, the afternoon session opened with devotional services in charge of Mrs. E. T. Byles, which was followed by the election of the officers for the ensuing year.

Miss Edith Fredericks, a Methodist missionary in China, who is home on a furlough, was one of the principal speakers of the afternoon session and gave an interesting glimpse of the work of the Christian Church in China. Another interesting missionary address was that delivered by Mrs. Willard Price, conference superintendent of young people's work. Mrs. Roy Wood, soprano soloist of the Trinity Church choir, sang a very pleasing solo at this session.

The evening session, which closed the annual meeting, convened at 7:30 o'clock with devotional service in charge of the Rev. G. W. Griston, D. D., district superintendent. This was followed by the address of the evening, delivered by Miss Fredericks of China, who had spoken at the afternoon session. She gave a vivid outline of the work of the Methodist missionary in China and called attention to the need of the extension of the work. She said that while money was needed it was more important in a way to have missionaries. The field was large and the laborers but few. Her address, which gave the hearer a better idea of conditions in China, was listened to with close attention.

ABANDONED FORD

In Front of Opera House—Engine Ran all Afternoon.

A 1916 Ford runabout bearing license number 628-167 was found abandoned Wednesday morning on Fair street in front of the Kingston Opera House and taken in charge by the police. The car was driven up to the curb Tuesday afternoon and left with the engine running all afternoon. Several hours later Harry Patterson who is employed at the opera house and who had noticed the car earlier in the afternoon turned off the engine as the radiator had boiled dry. Wednesday morning the car was still in the street and in the afternoon Mr. Patterson called the attention of Officer Martin to the car.

As the car may have been stolen and abandoned here, Officer Martin notified headquarters and had the car taken to the city hall. Officer Fout who was sent to bring in the car recognized it as one which he had repaired some time ago, it being owned by Dr. Mark O'Meara at that time. Who the car belongs to now could not be learned.

For Beauty's Sake

Remove that film-coat from your teeth

All statements approved by authorities

Teeth cannot glisten with a film-coat on them. You who want white teeth must learn how to remove it.

This week your druggist offers—free—a new way of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Go make that test. One week's results will be a revelation.

Film—the great enemy

But this is more than a beauty question. Film ruins millions of teeth. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste cannot end it, so the tooth brush has left much of it intact.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing, because brushing failed to end that film.

Now a new dental era

Dental science, after years of research, has found ways to combat film day by day. The methods have been proved efficient by many careful tests. High authorities endorse them. And millions of people now employ them, largely by dental advice.

These methods are combined in a tooth paste called Pepsodent. Together they combat the film as nothing else has done. And they are fast bringing, the world over, a new era in teeth cleaning.

That is the tooth paste you are urged to test. See the instant results—watch the effects for ten days. Then decide for yourself between the old ways and the new.

The unique effects

One ingredient of Pepsodent is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling. The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied also. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

The Pepsodent effects come with every application. Day by day they fight the teeth's great enemies. And teeth are protected as they never were before.

See and feel it act

Present this coupon for the 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

The results are quick and apparent. A little book tells the reasons for them. For your own sake learn how much they mean.

WANT MORE PAY.

Postmen Not Satisfied With Increase Granted.

The New York State Association of the National Association of Letter Carriers, with which the Kingston letter carriers' local is affiliated, held its biennial convention Labor Day in the Dutch Reformed Church, Jamaica.

Resolutions expressing dissatisfaction at the wage increase granted by the last congress and demanding that the scale be increased to $2,466 a year were adopted. Others recommended increased compensation for carriers injured while on duty; a court of review for the consideration of charges of infractions of rules; double pay for overtime work; Saturday half holiday; and the payment of 40 cents an hour to substitute carriers.

The speakers at the dinner in the evening included: United States Senators William M. Calder and James W. Wadsworth, Jr.; Borough President Maurice E. Connelly of Queens and James T. Mahoney, retiring president of the state association.

New officers were elected as follows: Joseph Tunnally, president; Eugene Nichols of Flushing, vice-president; Lester R. Van Duser of Rochester, secretary; and R. A. Wadsworth of Troy, treasurer. The new executive board included James T. Mahoney of Buffalo, chairman; Frank Vandewater, Jamaica; Charles Walde, Yonkers; and John W. Japp, Schenectady.

FREE

This week only

At drug store named below, a 10-day tube of Pepsodent. Simply present the coupon. Let this new way prove itself. Judge by results what it means to you. Learn now the way that millions know to whiter, safer teeth.

Now daily used by millions

Millions of people are now using Pepsodent. You can see the results wherever you look—in glistening teeth.

Women who think their teeth white now should see how they look with the film gone.

With men who smoke the films are apt to be particularly discolored. They will see the most conspicuous results.

But children need Pepsodent most. Their teeth are most subject to decay. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be daily applied from the time the first tooth appears. It may save them troubles life-long in effect.

10-DAY TUBE FREE

Present this coupon, with your name and address filled in, to any store named. It is good for a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Adjutant Hewitt to Conduct Tonight's Meeting.

Tonight Adjutant Samuel Hewitt in charge of the divisional headquarters corps at Albany will have charge of the special meeting to be conducted at the Salvation Army on North Front street. The adjutant just previous to assuming command of the Albany corps was doing special evangelistic or revival meetings for extended periods throughout the state. He had wonderful success.

Last night Commandant Clinch of Troy conducted the service which was unusually interesting. His daughters sang several duets together.

Tomorrow night Captain Louise Young assisted by Lieutenants Mary Heft and Irene Waldron of Cohoes will have charge of the meeting. Captain Louise Young has visited Kingston several times before and has always captivated her audience by her personality and earnestness. Captain Young is incidentally the "Original Doughnut Girl."

IN CITY HALL TOWER

Is Where Clock Should Be, Think Supton.

Editor Freeman:

The city fathers are going to have a clock in church steeple, but I would suggest that it be placed in the city hall tower, for then everybody could see it, as in church tower you need an alibi to see it. There are too many trees. Nobody can see it now.

Sincerely,

THOMAS SUPTON,
